UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA.

Covina Sends Large Number of Students to This Institution of Learning.

The University of California will reopen on Monday. The past week has seen many Covina students leave for Berkeley, some to resume their studies and others to enter for the first time this institution of learning. Among them is Howard Douglas, who will enter the Sophomore class. He has already been appointed to a position on the Daily Californian, the college paper. Karl Leebrick, for the past two years principal of the Covina grammar schools, also reenters the university. Miss Veta Heath, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Heath, who graduated last year with high honors from Claremont College, takes post-graduate work. Thomas B. Reed, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Reed, a graduate of the class of '09 of the Covina high school, enters the College of Social Sciences. Walter J. Aschenbrenner, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Aschenbrenner of the San Bernardino road, also a graduate of Covina High, will take a similar course. Aschenbrenner is a bright scholar, as is shown by the able manner in which he edited last year's Cardinal, the school paper. As a debater he has few equals in the high schools of Southern California. Paul Custer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Custer, continues his engineering course. Harry Nell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Nell, a graduate in 1908 from the Covina high school, enters upon an engineering course. Miss Gertrude Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Elliott, and Chas. Ward of Charter Oak, both graduates of the local high school last year, will enter the College of Social Sciences.

Attempted Suicide.

Michael Hallisey, in a fit of madness shot himself in the neck with a .38 revolver, Wednesday morning. Hallisey moved from Los Angeles to El Monte about six weeks ago, and lived in the house where R. Baker used to live. He owns a 20-acre ranch north of town, and had just completed building a new house on his ranch, and Wednesday morning, he was preparing to move his household goods to his new home, when he had a quarrel with his wife, and then he shot himself in the neck, producing an ugly wound. Dr. Bowerman attended him. Hallisey was taken on a P. E. car to the Good Samaritan hospital at Los Angeles. Hallisey was a quiet man and had but little to say. It is not thought the wound will prove fatal.—El Monte Gazette.

The Misses Goldie Deemer and Hazel Rogers of Glendora have been guests during the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bonham of East Center street.

Camp Rincon.

Camp Rincon is practically full of guests now with reservations enough ahead to make a lively season. With dancing, corn roasts around the camp fire, horse-back rides and other amusements, the campers are leading a jolly life, yet the grounds are so extensive those who wish to be quiet have plenty of room.

Organized.

Following the active campaign conducted last week by the Rev. Clarence E. Webb in the interest of the Social Purity League of the Pacific Coast, a local branch was instituted on Tuesday evening in the Baptist Church, with the following officers: W. W. C. White, president; Mrs. E. E. Pitts, vice-president; J. B. Raymond, treasurer; Andrew McAllen, secretary. The new branch will be known as the Covina Social Purity League, and is the first local organization on the Pacific coast. A number of prominent business men and ranchers have subscribed liberally towards the work. The branch will maintain a library of standard works by authors who have made the great social evil and its prevention their life study.

OILED MACADAM.

Contractor Charles A. Baldwin of Pasadena Tells How Macadam Roads are Built in His City.

Contractor Charles A. Baldwin of Pasadena, who has built many miles of macadam streets in Pasadena and other cities, was present Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the city trustees and told in a brief and interesting way the results which are being obtained with oiled macadam roads in Southern California.

"The oiled macadam road," he said, "is both noiseless and dustless, giving it an advantage even over the asphalt pavement in this respect." He recommended for residence streets, with traffic similar to Center street, a layer of from 2 to 2½ inches of crushed boulder rock, bound together with one and one-half gallons of heavy oil to the square yard and rolled until a thoroughly hard and smooth surface is acquired. This work could be done at an approximate cost of three cents per square foot. Much might be added, he said, to the appearance of the street by cement gutters. If this were done on Center street it would probably add an additional cost of $6.00 per lot.

After listening to Mr. Baldwin, the trustees deemed it wise to postpone the final adoption of the specifications for the paving of Center street until an adjourned meeting to be held on Tuesday next.

The interest which is being manifested in the improvement of Center street was again shown by the attendance of a large number of the property owners interested.

The following demands were allowed and ordered paid:

A. M. Pence, $17; J. L. Matthews, $4; B. C. Prentiss, $27.75; Sam Cook, $36.50; Pacific Light & Power Co., $32; J. Braden, $47; Covina City Water, $38.46; F. G. Dessery, $58.90.

We Want It "West Covina."

Editor Covina Argus:
Your brief editorial mention in last week's issue of the Argus in reference to calling all that territory now lying south and southwest of your city "West Covina," meets with our entire approval and in this we are supported by a very large majority of the residents of this section. Covina is our postoffice; we want our names in the telephone directory to appear in the Covina columns; our interests are entirely with your city. "Greater Covina" is what we want.

Real Estate Man Invests in Land.

R. A. Welch, an active real estate agent, certainly believes in the future of Covina realty. A few weeks ago he sold his ten acre orange grove on Workman street for $24,000, and ever since he has been looking around for some more Covina land in which to invest. This week he purchased from C. J. Hayler of Los Angeles 18 acres of vacant land adjoining the Savoy packing house, just east of Covina on the Southern Pacific. He will immediately commence to level the ground preparatory to planting orange trees next spring. The place adjoins the flourishing young Valencia grove of A. M. Pence.

Resolutions.

Whereas, death has again entered our Chapter and called another brother, Darin White,

Be it resolved, that we sincerely mourn his loss and extend kindest sympathy to his bereaved family.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Chapter, a copy be sent to Sister White, and a copy printed in the Covina Argus.

TALKS OF STEAMSHIP BILL.

James McLachlan Praises Tariff Measure and Assures Success of Government Steamer Line by Way of Panama.

Congressman James McLachlan, father of the Pacific Coast government steamship bill, introduced at the session of congress just closed, returned Wednesday from Washington, coming to Los Angeles by way of San Francisco.

Mr. McLachlan, in speaking of the recently passed tariff bill, said that nothing more favorable to California could be asked than the new law. "No true Californian can object to the tariff bill signed by President Taft," said Mr. McLachlan. "No state fared better than California, and we indeed have much to rejoice over."

"But of greater importance to the West than the tariff bill is the Pacific Coast Steamship line, controlled by the government, which I advocated with a bill to consummate it."

"On every hand I am assured of a more enthusiastic reception for the Pacific Steamship bill next year, and I can say now that I intend to prosecute the measure to a successful issue."

"Before returning to California I made a trip to New York to look over the ground thoroughly, for New York will be almost as greatly affected by the bill as all the Pacific coast cities. Its hearty reception there is assured."

"I also made a trip to Panama and talked to all the officials in charge there about the bill, and the effect it would have in the canal zone. Nothing can be done there until the consent of the secretary of war is given and the officers refused to be personally quoted."

OBSTACLES IN VIEW.

"Why, that bill will mean the eventual great development of the richest section of the country—the Pacific Coast."

In the path of the measure, One is—the path of the measure, One is—and I assume this entirely—the opposition of the transcontinental railroads, which will undoubtedly do all in their power to prevent its passage. The other—and this is generally known—is that the legislators are prejudiced against enterprises of this kind, controlled by the government."

Mrs. Whitset Visits Friends in Highlands.

Mrs. J. M. Whitset has returned from an exceedingly pleasant visit with her friend, Mrs. Harvey R. Preston, of Highlands. She was the recipient of several social affairs in her honor. We clip one of these from the Highland Messenger:

Mrs. Harvey R. Preston entertained Monday afternoon with elaborate house party in honor of her guests, Mrs. O. E. Collins, of Colorado Springs, Mrs. Whitset of Covina, and Miss Parker of Redlands. The hours were most pleasantly whiled away with games and music, after which a dainty collation of dishes was served. Mrs. Whitset contributed several vocal selections.

Another Quick Sale.

D. W. Macdonald, local representative of the Edwards & Wilder Co., reports the sale for C. M. Cornwall of Bonita avenue, Charter Oak, to R. T. Chew, Sr., a ten acre navel and Valencia grove. Property is improved with a new seven-room bungalow with every modern convenience, barn and outbuildings. Consideration, $16,000. Price includes team of horses and all farm implements. Mr. Chew is a recent arrival from Iowa and buys for a home.

Attorney Pence Loses His Father.

Attorney A. M. Pence received word this week of the sudden death of his father, Mr. Isaac H. Pence, at his home in Salt Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. The deceased, who was 65 years of age, had been afflicted with an acute form of rheumatism for several years.

New Type of Lemon House.

A new type of building construction which may prove of inestimable value to the lemon growers is described in this week's issue of the Southwest Contractor and Manufacturer.

Poorly designed buildings have and are causing considerable loss to the lemon growing industry in Southern California. Fire has destroyed a number of packing houses, causing a loss in building investment as well as a loss in stored fruit. But, perhaps, even greater losses are every season sustained by the growers and shippers in deterioration of the stored fruit and the expensive methods of cooling. Heretofore the question of cool storage and obtaining the humidity required to successfully store lemons has been only partially solved—an important question from the fact that the crop necessitates storage for several months at times, according to the prevailing market conditions.

Near the coast the cool storage and humidity question is a comparatively simple one to meet. But in the hot valleys of the interior it is as yet unsolved. Various systems have been tried, with varying degrees of success.

A recent invention in building construction made by Mr. Thomas Fellows of Los Angeles gives promise of successfully solving the problem of a semi-fireproof building at low cost, which will ensure, by its peculiar features of construction alone, without ice or refrigerating machinery, an equable temperature and humidity as needed. These are provided for by simple inexpensive methods which any person of ordinary intelligence can operate. One phase of this system which will particularly interest the packers is that daytime ventilation is possible.

The tariff question is not the only prominent problem with which lemon growers and shippers are contending in Southern California, nor the diseases of the various kinds in the growing stage. The latter are being studied carefully by state and government experts. But little concerted action has been taken to provide better storage and cooling conditions, although the need is felt by every shipper.

Mr. Fellows' ideas have created much interest among shippers and the Cucamonga Lemon Association has authorized the Milwaukee building Company of Los Angeles, with which Mr. Fellows is connected as architectural engineer, to prepare plans and estimates for a one-story and basement lemon packing plant with his ideas incorporated, and equipped with his devices. The building will be 160 x 120 feet, with facilities for washing and economically handling the fruit. This was done after a demonstration of Mr. Fellows' system, which awakened general interest throughout the lemon growing belt.

Good Streets Attract Strangers.

With the present movement on foot for the paving of Covina streets the following clipping from the Ventura Free Press emphasizes the benefits direct and indirect, to be derived from well-kept streets:

"Have you noticed, lately, how every visitor to Ventura is charmed and delighted with the town? That is the fact. This is a psychological moment for Ventura. The reason is not far to seek, although perhaps it takes the analytical mind to find it. It is, in a few words, because the town has found confidence in itself takes pride in itself, goes ahead and grows from within itself, and this pride and confidence reacts upon the stranger and influences him favorably for the town. Not one stranger in a hundred may be, knows what it is that draws him—but at bottom, this is the explanation. A stranger said to the writer the other day: 'Isn't this street work great? I tell you, I admire it more and more every time I come on the street. That is the best thing that any town can do for itself—the best possible advertisement.' He admitted a truth; but that was his way of expressing his sympathy with the growth of the New Ventura."

The Way of Jesus.

By H. N. Wells.

Three times only do we find the word Christian used in the Bible, and always as an epithet of contempt.

Jesus spoke of himself as the Way and Paul speaks of the followers of Jesus and their belief as this Way. It is evident, also, from many references that the faithful used the term Way or Road when they spoke of the faith for which they were persecuted.

The policy of governments and of religious authorities, towards the Christian religion, was for many centuries after Christ one of repression, which policy made impossible anything in the nature of a well organized Christian church.

As in the story of our Lord we find, like the faces of friends in unexpected places, the names of obscure followers of the Master; so in all times there have been those who have quietly loved him and served him, and of whom he has never been ashamed, although they may not be seen in public places proclaiming his name. For there are those to whom religion is like a battle and who must continually rally 'round the flag; and God has need of these and their service is a large one in the world where there is much to fight for and to fight against.

But there are those to whom the presence of God is as the sweetness and secret ecstasy of a lover's embrace never to be mentioned even to closest friends.

One need never to doubt the loyalty of these friends of Jesus—their service is none the less acceptable in that it is unostentatious. Their faces and fine courtesy show that they have been in high company, even though seldom seen within the walls of churches or engaged in public devotion.

Do you remember how Jesus sent his disciples to find a room to keep the last Passover?

The good man of the house, Nicodemus, Joseph of Arimathea, Martha, Mary and Lazarus did not need to follow the Master through the three years of his public ministry to know him perhaps as none of the apostles ever knew him.

The twelve were his official cabinet, but these were his private friends, and Jesus gave undying evidence of his deep regard for them.

They walked in the Way of Jesus, yet, in the Way with Jesus, for it happeneth that he who travellest this road, findeth that Jesus himself draweth near and walketh with him.

Local Branch of Social Purity League

A surprise party was given in honor of Raymond Finch on Friday evening last, before his leaving for San Francisco on Thursday, where he will study watchmaking and jewelry in all its branches. The party was a success in every sense, especially the game of "Take Pains." Miss Jessie Kistler winning the prize. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Among the guests present were the Misses Edith Sutherland, Jessie Kistler, Gertrude Elliott, Marian and Ross Given, Sarah Crook, Della Harbush, Mabel Curry, Alice Atwood and Marian Johnson; Messrs. Tom Reed, Walter Reimer, Tom Finch, Grant Chapman, Hoyt Leasure, Paul Rogers, Walter J. Aschenbrenner, Edward Walters, Lloyd Taylor. After the last drop of midnight oil had been burned, everybody drank punch with a merry laugh.

COVINA STILL AT THE TOP.

Paraffine Paint Company Ball Players Make Best Showing Yet Against Covina.

Covina, 6; Paraffine Paint Company, 2.

Last Sunday's was the best game of the Interurban league series that has been played on the Covina grounds. It was the most interesting because the "daubers" made a better showing against the Covina aggregation than any of the other teams so far. Not that the other teams were weak; far from it. Each team has made every position as strong as it can be made by securing the best men in the South outside of the big league clubs.

But with Miller pitching such ball as was never seen here before and the balance of the team batting like fiends and fielding well, Covina has had it on the visitors all around.

Crossman, pitching for the Paint company, made a very strong opponent for Miller, and had his team been supported him better, the score would have been held down. His slow benders were not appreciated by the Covina three-base hitters.

Of the two runs scored against Covina, the first was due to Aguayo letting a long drive to left field go past him. Pete was running to head off a hot one and when about to pull it down, slightly stumbled and hit the ball with one hand, which did not stop it. This scored a man who had gained second base. The other run was made in the eighth, when Withrow made a two-base hit to left and scored a runner.

Covina scored four runs in the third inning and two more in the eighth.

There were several feature plays on the part of the Covina players. Cheshire, the catcher, did some great base stealing, getting around the bags in the manner that Aguayo does without taking such awful chances. Second was stolen twice by the runner going from first when Crossman threw to catch the runner off the base, the first baseman not daring to throw second on account of there being a man on third who would score. Graf made a double play, unassisted, by snaring a low drive and putting the ball on the runner going to second. The fans had a good laugh at the expense of one of the visitors, when Miller ran from his box and tagged him between second and third. The runner was playing far off and when Miller whirled around he (the runner) waited for the ball to be thrown to one of the basemen so he could try for the opposite bag. Instead of doing this, Miller held the ball and ran out and touched the runner himself.

The score:

TOMORROW'S GAME TELLS.

Tomorrow, the game that has been waited for and talked of in Covina, will be played here. The Palms team's percentage equals Covina's, they winning every game they have played. Their pitcher, Saenz, is somewhat of a phenom, having won worlds of speed. However, the Covina fans will bank on Miller against anyone and the Covina boys have a slight margin on the batting averages. Those who have seen the Palms team say Covina has no reason to be afraid of them. Nevertheless, the thought of going against this fast team puts them on the qui vive.

A record-breaking attendance is expected at the game, as this is sure to be a real contest. Flaring red posters announcing the game have been hung all over the valley and every man who knows baseball from ping pong will be there.

Theatrical Notes

BURBANK THEATER.

A. Byron Beasley, long recognized as one of the very best actors in stock on the coast, will make his debut as leading man of the Burbank company this (Sunday) afternoon, returning to the stage which has been the scene of his endeavors for the past year, after a vacation of six weeks, but in a new capacity. The play for the week is "Jack Straw," offered locally a few weeks ago at the Mason opera house by John Drew and his company. It never yet has been seen in stock and Mr. Beasley will be the second man in America to enact the same part. With him in the cast, in addition to all the favorites of the Burbank organization, will appear Miss Maude Beatty and Miss Lillian Hayward, both well known to Los Angeles theater goers though neither has ever appeared on the Burbank stage.

"Jack Straw" is written in the lightest comedy vein and is full of amusing situations and bright, epigrammatic dialogue. Its satire is aimed at the snobishness so prevalent in English society.

The comedy, in three acts, will run through the week with matinees today (Sunday) and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Houser and family are expected home today from a two weeks' outing at Catalina.

Mrs. C. D. Menefee left Tuesday to spend three months visiting relatives and friends in Chicago and Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Nuzum, having sold their ranch, have moved to Mrs. Fitzgerald's house on Puente street.

The Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian Church enjoyed a pleasant social Monday evening in the social hall.

Mrs. Mary Dixon and daughter, who have spent the past two months with Mrs. L. L. Ratekin, left for her home in Stronghurst, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brunjes and daughters spent last Sunday as guests of Messrs. H. Westhorpe and J. Lough at San Dimas.

Mrs. L. H. Gates of Unadilla Forks, New York, who has been visiting with her nephew, J. C. Hutchinson, has decided to remain permanently.

Mrs. J. L. Berry and daughter, Mildred, and Mrs. B. D. Mussey and two children, of Los Angeles, spent the week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. N. D. Mussey.

Mrs. Rosa C. Clarke and children left Thursday morning to spend a week at Venice. They were accompanied by Masters Allison Given and Percy Atwood, who spent the day with them.

Wells Replies to Brown.
To the Editor of the Covina Argus,
Dear Sir: In your edition of July 31st, Mr. Brown of the Christian Science Committee on Publication has made several misstatements, which I wish to correct.

Firstly, he continues the attempt to show a similarity between the revisions of the Bible and the radical changes in "Science and Health."

Now, at the most, it is only claimed for our English versions of the Bible that they are merely translations and a revision of our Bible is simply a revision of a translation; the original is the same today as it was a thousand years ago.

Mr. Brown's reference to the Twentieth Century New Testament is a most palpable evasion, as this book is frankly and avowedly an attempt to tell the gist of the story in modern language; it lays no claim to being a literal translation. As against this, "Science and Health," the book which God dictated to Mrs. Eddy, has been reconstructed almost yearly until the original book is practically lost.

Secondly, Mr. Brown calls my attention to the appended note in the C. S. Quarterly, which makes it possible for the owner of the last previous edition to study the weekly lessons. This is an evasion, which amounts almost to a misrepresentation. It has always been the custom, and is today (unless there has been a very recent change), to publish this appendix for a short time, but this is soon discontinued, so that my point is literally true, that the loyal student must sooner or later purchase the new volume.

Will Mr. Brown say that I can use my "Text Book" of several years ago for this purpose today? It is also considered a matter for shame in the Christian Science church if the communicant does not possess the latest edition. He will surely be called upon to make that "demonstration."

Such use of half truths is contemptible and shows the straits to which the exponent of Christian Science is forced, in order to defend his belief and the policy of his church.

Mr. Brown's statement that the cheaper edition of "Science and Health" is the copy most generally in use, is also a misstatement, for it is of a size and form and of a cheap appearance, which makes it impracticable.

But whether we refer to the $3.00 or the $5.00 volume, I know of no book of the same size and of equal circulation, whether of a scientific or other nature, which is so expensive.

Moreover, this is a religious text book, and if the devotees of this sect were sincere in the propagation of the faith, they would put it on the market at the lowest possible cost.

As a publisher and printer of experience, I can state that the large item of expense in publication is the selling of the book. This cost is almost eliminated in this case and the cost of producing this book is at the most but a few cents per copy for either style.

Now if Mrs. Eddy and the Christian Science Church were engaged in the business for purposes of profit only, this would be permissible, although the profits would, even then, smack of extortion. But if, on the other hand, they be what they claim to be, an organization for the uplift of humanity and the spread of the Truth, this condition is simply damnable.

I leave the inference to the readers of the Argus.

In all his so-called answers, Mr. Brown has ignored my pertinent points or resorted to subterfuge after the manner shown above.

This is typical of these people, that while they continually cry "Truth," "Truth," they are uniformly lacking in sincerity.

It is therefore of little virtue and less satisfaction to argue with them, or to correct their misstatements, as one finds himself engaged in an endless task.

Georgine Milwine in McClure's Magazine and Mr. Frederic Peabody have both thoroughly exposed Mrs. Eddy and Christian Science.

If their statements are untrue, they are liable to criminal prosecution, and Mrs. Eddy and the Christian Science church owe it to themselves, their communicants and the world at large to be truthful.

Mrs. Eddy has shown, in times past, no scruples against taking such action, and her failure to do so in this case gives tacit consent to these charges.

Anyone wishing to read a fair-minded history of this sect and of its high priestess should read the publications mentioned above.

A PLEA FOR DELAY.

Should the Honest But Poor Man Be Compelled to Sacrifice His Home For Civic Improvements?

Covina is a model city of growth and prosperity. Twenty-five years ago, nothing but an occasional house or shack could be seen in the land of sunflowers. The land was fertile, and was cheap, so prospective farmers came in and bought up small tracts of land and began the cultivation of the soil. The town grew, the railroad came through, the city was incorporated, the electric line was extended to Covina from Los Angeles, and now prosperity extends to all? No, not all, for there are those with large families, who have struggled to keep the wolf from their doors, while they managed to accumulate money enough to buy a cheap lot, and by skillful management and great privation they have been able to build for themselves some kinds of homes. Today those people are just managing to keep even with the world.

As it happened at the time, those cheap lots were on Center street. Since that time that street has been found an excellent location for homes for the well-to-do people. But what is the result? The taxes must be necessarily raised, sidewalks must be put in, the poor man, the man who makes the best citizen, the man who is honest and upright in all his dealings must pay for the sidewalk (of no use to him) with his hard-earned money; he must make more self-denials, he must refuse his children the necessary sustenance of life in order to pay that sidewalk bill. "Is this not all right?" say you with money. "Yes," is the answer of 99 percent of the moneyed class. "Yes," is the answer, but men, I appeal to your higher respect for humanity. Is it right to compel a man to pay for something which he does neither need nor want, and which he does not have the privilege of saying whether he shall have it or not?

The sidewalks are in and the poor man is still struggling to pay his (shall I say "honest") debt. But what is the next call? Are the moneyed people satisfied? No! "Pavement" is their cry. "Pavement from curb to curb, whether the property owners want it or not, whether it is right or not. If they say they will not pay for it, enforce it and say we did it according to the Vrooman act." You! man of noble mind! You! man who cares for humanity! You! who read the Good Book! Do you believe this in justice toward your fellowman. Do you believe you are increasing love and unity, which are such noticeable characteristics of the American people?

When a carpenter builds a house does he build the roof first, then the floor, and so on, or does he begin with the foundation and build upwards? If a man is building up a city does he not begin at the center and work around it? If the streets of Covina are to be paved and sidewalked, why not begin at the center, on Badillo, and on Citrus avenue? That is the question, and why not wait until the greater majority of the people are ready for sidewalks and paved streets and then when you do it, do it right?

I ask you, men, is it the dust that hurts? What are our higher taxes for if not for oil to oil our streets, which we do not get? If there are those who are ready for it now, why not let them go ahead and pay for it out of their own pockets, and not squeeze the daily bread out of their fellowman? Gentlemen and citizens, are we those who claim to be advancing toward higher civilization? Are we those who are raising the standard of living, and unselfishness? If we are, citizens, why do we not wrench ourselves from this thing we are falling into and show to humanity that "we, the people of Covina, have for our motto, "Benefit, justice and unselfishness."

PUENTE.

Thirty-five of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Cross tendered them a delightful surprise party Tuesday night in honor of their thirteenth wedding anniversary. After the merriment attending the arrival of the unexpected guests had been expressed, the party adjourned to the Fraternal Brotherhood hall, where dancing and games were enjoyed and where refreshments were served.

It is reported that nearly all of the sixth division of the Baldwin ranch, which was recently put upon the market, has been sold.

The citizens of this vicinity are greatly aroused over the numerous fires that have destroyed so many tons of hay recently. The first of these strangely originating fires destroyed fifteen tons of hay belonging to E. T. Coffman of Irwindale. Last week three fires occurred, Mr. Oxarat being the heaviest loser, his forty tons of baled hay being valued at $400. Mr. Ferrero also lost forty tons of loose hay and the Baldwin estate a large stack containing twenty tons. On Monday evening of this week it was discovered that alfalfa hay belonging to G. E. Cross was afire. The hay had only been baled that day and was divided into two stacks. By dint of much hard work one of the stacks was saved, so that Mr. Cross's loss amounted to only about thirteen tons. It is the general supposition that the fires are of incendiary origin and a sharp outlook is being kept for the offender.

Geo. Lawson is installing a pumping plant on his property east of here.

The box social given last Saturday night by the Fraternal Brotherhood was attended by about seventy-five of the members of the lodge and their friends. About $55 was raised for the benefit of the lodge by the auction of lunch boxes and the sale of ice cream. Besides a financial success, the program of the evening afforded much amusement. It was as follows: Piano solo, Miss Mabel Cross; duet, the Misses Diller; reading, Mrs. Charles Howe; two act comedy, "Dr. Cure-All," in which Roland Hudson, Mrs. J. D. Green, Mrs. W. M. Cross, Mrs. G. E. Cross, Miss Edith and Miss Cora Reynolds, Miss Emma Pickewirth and Miss Lillian Hudson, took part. The last number on the program was a shaving act in which Roland and Whitehead Hudson and George Ferrero took the part of clever clowns. Following the program an informal dance was held.

Mrs. Oscar Miller is expected home Monday from her visit with her parents in the north. Mr. Miller, who has been keeping bachelor hall, entertained during the greater part of last week, J. L. Reser and family of Gypsum, Kans., and this week his father, J. W. Miller, of Ontario.

On Wednesday the birthday of Mrs. John Wilkins was celebrated by a large gathering of friends and relatives at the home of Mrs. F. W. Sherwood. When the guest of honor arrived, the home was unusually quiet and apparently empty, until she explored under beds and in wardrobes. Mrs. Wilkins received a number of nice presents. Everything was done to make her wish to have many more "happy returns." Ice cream, cake and tea were the refreshments.

Tuesday afternoon, from 2 to 5, Miss Jessie Kistler entertained at her home on College street in honor of her Stanford friend, Miss Helen Campbell of El Centro, who has been her guest since Saturday of last week. The afternoon was spent in conversation and games, the prizes being won by Misses Bess Given and Mildred Baker. Refreshments of cake, ice cream and candy were served. Those present were Misses Helen Campbell, Anna Summers, Mildred Baker, Leisel Leighton, Bess Given, Hattie Nye, Marjorie Given, Edith Waterhouse, Sarah Crook, Gail May Coffman, and Misses Stewart and Kistler.

Mr. and Mrs. Boston, who returned from their wedding tour Monday evening, have taken up their residence in the cottage on the W. H. Collins place across from the packing house.

The girls are both graduates of the Covina Union High School and by their warm and generous natures have won many friends who regret to see them go. They will attend Normal this fall.

The trustees of the Charter Oak school are having the grounds cleaned and repairs made to the buildings both inside and outside preparatory to begin the fall term.

Catalina Notes.

The event of the week has been the great golf tournament, which has brought enthusiasts of this popular pastime from all parts to contest for the honor of having their names inscribed on the grand challenge cup.

The Metropole, Island Villa and other hotels, villas and camps are filled with a gay and joyous crowd of fashionable visitors from all parts of the United States.

Yachting and fishing are still the great attractions. Yellowtail have been biting very freely and consequently a great many anglers have obtained the coveted buttons of the Light Tackle Club.

Monday was the finest fishing day of the year, gold and silver buttons being the order of the day. Several of the yellowtail weighed over 40 pounds.

W. H. Harrison of Los Angeles caught one off Church Rocks weighing forty and a half pounds. W. G. Campbell reeled in one at Clemente weighing forty-seven and a half pounds. This latter fish comes within one and one-quarter pounds of the record yellowtail of the season, which weighed forty-eight and three quarters pounds and was brought in by Billy Matthews in the "San Toy" from Ship Rock the latter part of May.

Return From a Three Months' Eastern Tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fesler arrived home on Monday from a three months' trip through the extreme eastern and middle-western states.

Their journey was one round of pleasure, not one unpleasant incident to mar their enjoyment. They visited relatives and friends in Virginia, Washington, D. C., Buffalo and Niagara, stopping on their return at several points in Iowa, Missouri, Indiana and Colorado.

Mr. Fesler reports abundant grain crops in all sections. The peach crop in many parts is a partial failure, including the celebrated peach orchards of Niagara. The apple crop throughout the East is light, and indications would point to a strong opening for the coming navel crop. General prosperity is prevailing everywhere throughout the East and Mr. Fesler expects that the influx of visitors from the East to California next winter will exceed that of all past seasons.

Ed. Reports from the Fruitman's Guide of New York, speak of the apple crop as being above the average.

TIDES AND FISHING.

Fish Are More Active In Search For Food on the Flood Tide.

The most essential thing in sea fishing, next to tackle and bait, is a tide table, because all marine fishes except the flatfish—flounder and fluke—are captured more readily at a certain tide. The main cause for such is that fish are more active in their search for food generally on the flood tide.

Vast schools of little fishes move into shore on the incoming tide, working their way into the smaller cays and inlets, especially near the edge of banks, where they feed on the small crustaceans, shrimps and little fishes that can effectively hide from their larger enemies when the tide is low and the large fish are unable to get at them in very shallow water.

It is a common and interesting sight to see a school of weakfish slowly moving in near the surface with the ebb tide. Suddenly one sees the school surface all in commotion. Silvery indignant leaps frantically in all directions, looking like flashes of diamonds, then instantly disappear to certain death. At such times anglers should be ready with their boat "planned snaz, lines out floating forty feet away, baited with live shrimps.

Tide affects bottom feeders, though not to such a large extent. Fishing from piers and docks an hour before and after flood is most likely to give good results. On wrecks much depends on the kind of fish. The last of the ebb and at low tide is considered the worst condition for general fishing. In the open sea, on the banks, tidal influence counts for little or nothing. Any tide is as good as another.—Outing Magazine.

THE LIVERY STABLE DOG.

Some Ways In Which He Differs From the Fashionable Pets.

The common livery stable dog is totally unlike the "powder puff" or "toots and skigums" dog, but his disposition is infinitely better. To lie on a cushion and growl and snap at the hand that would caress it is considered the height of folly in the livery stable variety.

The livery stable dog approaches you ingratiatingly and offers you a dirty paw to shake. After you have shaken it he solemnly gives you the other. Then he crawls up in your lap and licks you on the mouth.

The livery stable canine is a most industrious digger of holes. The theory is that he is going to lie down in the hole he digs, but he does no such thing. He goes and lies down right in the middle of the sidewalk, where people will have to step over him. He will never get out of anybody's way. He even lies down in the middle of the street and tries to make carts, wagons and automobiles avoid him.

He doesn't enjoy as large a vocabulary as the powder puff or skigums dog. A phrase like "Doesn't want uns itty bass?" would scare him to death. His advantages have not been such as to acquaint him with such, hifalutin talk, but he does know a few simple phrases like "Git to blazes out of here, you darned pest!" He understands that perfectly.—Pack.

The American Youth.

If the truth were told most young American men are not especially interesting. They do not keep up their reading. They have a national oddity when it comes to music, to art, to literature, nor do many of them take any of these things at all seriously. The young among them are not good conversationalists. Our cleverest men are monologists pure and simple. They lecture admirably. They are born orators along modified lines. They are inevitable story tellers. None of this is conversation, and women like conversation, like its courtesies, which at least pretend a little interest when their turn comes in the game. Knowledge of people and affairs outside our own country pricks more than one bubble about our young men.—Anna A. Rogers in Atlantic.

Discipline!

From the class room occupied by the roughest boys in the Sunday school came a great uproar. A secretary in the next room went to investigate. Complete silence followed the opening of the class room door. "Have you a teacher?" "No." "Do you want one?" "No." "Then be quiet or you'll get one." Result, comparative peace. Manchester Guardian.

Looking Out For Grandma.

They are considerate youngsters in Nottingham, as most people know, says London Tit-Bits. A little boy whose grandmother had just died wrote the following letter, which he duly posted:

"Dear Angels We have sent you grandma. Please give her a harp to play, as she is short winded and can't blow a trumpet."

CLEAN AS A WHISTLE

You DO enjoy food when you know it is CLEAN, that it is cooked in a CLEAN place by CLEAN people. And you WILL enjoy the food cooked at our Cafeteria because it IS clean.

Our kitchens are as clean and inviting looking as the most particular housewife could desire. Everything is "spick and span." And not only is the whole place spotlessly clean, but the food that's served is cooked in such a way as to make the mouth water.

Our cooks have the "knack" of seasoning down to a fine point. Here things taste as though they were made at home. Just come in and see if they don't. We are located directly across the street from the Pacific Electric Railway Station.

LOOK FOR OUR NAME ON THE WINDOW.
